

Abstract

This diploma thesis was devoted to the topic: the issue of the employment of persons with epilepsy. The theoretical part was focused on the description of epilepsy as a disease. However, most of the work was devoted to social work. These were areas such as employment and financial support for individuals with epilepsy.

The research part focused mainly on the factors influencing the employed persons with epilepsy between the ages of 18 and 65 years. This information was obtained through a questionnaire survey.