

Church of St. Jacob the Elder in Prague-Petrovice

Abstract

The main topic of this bachelor thesis is the parish church of St. Jacob the Elder in Petrovice, Prague and its cultural as well as historical development and changes. Its aim is to record and unify all known studies about the church, taking into account its development similarity with other churches around Prague and pointing out the uniqueness of its location. Among other things, the thesis could present the archival records from the 1940s which have not been published yet.