

Annotation

In this dissertation, I will attempt to describe a child's reaction to a death of a close person (parent). To do that, I separated my paper into two parts. The first part sets out the theoretical framework for death, its role in our lives, and the underlying processes. The second part, a qualitative research, applies the theoretical framework on a specific case and draws from an in-depth interview.