

The aim of this paper is to describe the value of education in the nursing and the value of education on NICU. Education and educational skills and competences of nurses play important role and represent a part of qualified care of premature baby. The aim of education of mother of premature baby is to offer her enough competent informations about baby 's condition and achieve her active participation in babyš care. In the researche part of this paper we compare results of maternal education and results of educational proces among four separate NICUs. (NICU-newbom intensive care unit)