

This thesis describes a view of medical employees on nurse process in use. If they understand it as an instrument for improving the quality of nurse care, or what are their knowledge about this matter.

Last but not least what is their thought of suitable using nurse process and in which internal condition.