

Abstract

The bachelor thesis "Problems within the Church Communities through the Eyes of the Book of Revelation" first briefly focuses on the Book of Revelation as such (to its author, literary genre, structure). The second part of the thesis outlines the historical background of the ecclesiastical communities. Subsequently, an analysis of seven messages is presented to seven ecclesial communities (Rev. 2-3), where the great space is given by the historical context followed by the exegesis of the individual sheets. In the third chapter of this bachelor thesis, a possible identification and classification of the difficulties encountered by the ecclesial communities in Asia Minor at the end of the first century were outlined.
