

In my Thesis called Ecotheology and Ecological Practice in the Czechoslovak Hussite Church I tried to deal with both theoretical and practical issues regarding care for creation. First I mentioned terminology which is in Czech language, not really well grounded and terms such as ecology, care for creation, ecological theology and ecotheology can be basically understood as interchangeable. Next part was dedicated to overview of ecological theory and practice published in our church magazine called Český zápas during period 1999-2018. Surprisingly it is full of interesting material. Next part was about ecological practices of our parishes and about projects dealing with ecocertification. So far there is quite few parishes that are „green“ but the situation has potential to improve. Eventually I decided to promote a new body that will deal with „green“ issues in our church and might be helpful to many parishes when reaching eco certificate.
