

Abstract

This bachelor's thesis deals with the topic of organizing and holding a local referendum in municipalities in Czech republic. The thesis is focused mainly on legal regulation of a local referendum in Czech republic and description of holding a local referendum. The practical part studies functioning of a local referendum in practice based on a research carried out by the Ministry of Interior