

Annotation

The main topic of the bachelor thesis is the psycho-social and health consequences of homelessness. The aim is to describe selected psycho-social and health consequences that accompany life on the street and the subsequent mapping of social services in Prague. This work has four main parts. The first part focuses on the phenomenon of homelessness and everything connected with it. The second chapter already contains selected psycho-social and health consequences and the last two parts present a mapping of social and health services for homeless people.

Keywords

homelessness, homeless person, psycho-social and health consequences of homelessness, social services, health