

The train station Praha – Vyšehrad

Abstract

The bachelor's thesis deals with the building of the Praha-Vyšehrad train station. It focuses not only on its history and architectural style, but especially on the possibility of its rescue and potential related steps in the coming years. The work thus tries to point out the importance of cultural heritage protection in a wide range and to highlight the need to save the material documents of our culture.