

ABSTRACT

The master's thesis „Czech Wikipedia: A Translation Project“ examines the environment available for translators on Czech Wikipedia. It concentrates on the description of the rules and limitations regarding translation on Wikipedia and its specifics. Furthermore, the actual process of translation is examined. Translation quality is also the subject to research. The theoretical bases for the thesis are mainly the manipulation theory (André Lefevere) and the field theory by Pierre Bourdieu will be used.