

Abstract

The aim of this bachelor's thesis is to translate a selected part of the third chapter of the vegetarian's handbook Viens manger ! Le végétarisme en toute simplicité from French to Czech. This publication was written in 2019 by Marie Marquis et al. at the University of Montreal. The thesis also includes a commentary on the overall translation process and everything that a translator must pay attention to during their work. Therefore, in addition to the translation itself, the thesis also includes the analysis of the source text, the translation method and fictional assignment, selected translation problems and their solution through translation techniques and shifts.
