

Abstract

Author: Ondřej Zálešák

Title: Case study of physiotherapeutic treatment of a patient diagnosed with systemic sclerosis

Objectives: The objective of this bachelor thesis is processing of theoretical knowledge about systemic sclerosis and subsequent utilization of said knowledge to create a case study of physiotherapeutic treatment of a patient with this diagnosis.

Methods: The methods used in the practical part of this thesis are based on the bachelors physiotherapy programme of UK FTVS.

Results: The assessment of the effect of therapy indicates, that the overall condition of the patient was moderately improved, thus fulfilling the set goals partially.

Keywords: physiotherapy, rehabilitation, rheumatology, systemic disease, systemic scleroderma