

In this thesis we study the maximum product spacing (MPS) estimation. First we shortly introduce the maximum likelihood (ML) method. Then, we explain the MPS method in detail. Finally, in specific cases, we demonstrate how to derive the MPS estimation and compare it with the ML estimation.