Course of defence: The student presented to the commission the goals, methodological procedures and results of his bachelor's thesis, in which he processed a case study of a patient after a stroke. After the presentation, due to the absence of both the supervisor and the opponent, both reports were read in full. Subsequently, the student had the opportunity to comment on both reports. In the next part of the defense, an open discussion took place, when the members of the commission asked the following questions, to which the student answered:
Pavlů – (1) question about the influence of spasticity, (2) discussion about applied procedures, (3) question about PIR in CMP treatment, (4) question about examination of range of motion – why only active movement was evaluated
The last part of the defense was a closed discussion, in which the committee evaluated the presentation, the student's ability to discuss and respond to the questions asked, and concluded the defense with an rating of excellent
