

Abstract

Planning and organization of summer camps is the primary concern of this thesis. All the necessary aspects of organization, such as choosing the right location, creating the daily programme or even the ecological impacts summer camps have on our planet are present. The thesis also offers practical advice and tips for effective management. It can serve as a useful source for future supervisors and other summer camp management as it is a complete guidebook for successful planning and realization of such events.

Aims: To create a guidebook for planning and organizing summer camps.

Methods: Descriptive analytical approach, content analysis and personal experience.

Results: The thesis provides a complex view into planning and organizing summer camps and offers research possibilities in the area of perfecting practice of child activities and education.

Conclusion: The thesis offers better understanding of planning and organizing summer camps and offers research possibilities in the area of perfecting practice of child activities and education.

Keywords

summer camp, game, outdoor activities, leadership, administration, non-profit institution