

Abstract

This bachelor thesis is focused on teaching of environmental education at elementary school in Czechia and Finland. The thesis describes the possibilities of defining environmental education, history of this subject and attitude towards teaching environmental education in the Czech and Finnish educational system. The aim of the thesis is to analyze structure of the education system at elementary schools in Czechia and Finland, with a focus on Environmental education. The thesis compares difference between concepts, contents, objectives, values and methods of teaching Environmental education in both countries. The thesis concludes with a summary of the results and proposing to a possible direction of reasearch in the future.