

Abstract

This bachelor's thesis deals with variants of pejorative addresses in Brazilian Portuguese. The work is divided into two parts, a theoretical part and a practical one. The theoretical part is focused on explaining and clarifying both Czech terms, i.e. non-standart language, literary language, professional language, slang, argot, swearing and vulgarisms, as well as the Portuguese ones, i.e. gíria, calão, insulto, palavrão and palavras taboos. The practical part consists of three parts. The first part is focused on the use of swear words in specific everyday situations, which are analyzed from a formal and semantic point of view. The second part is concentrates on swear words that we use to relieve ourselves in a given situation and the last part on expressions that we consider the most and least offensive in terms of rudeness.