

ABSTRACT

The diploma thesis deals with the issue of noun declension in the Czech language for a selected respondent from Mongolia, who has been living in the Czech Republic for seven years. The diploma thesis is divided into two parts, namely a theoretical part and an empirical part. The first part of the thesis introduces Mongolia itself, including the Mongolian educational system. The diploma thesis naturally also focuses on the typological characteristics of Mongolian. In the theoretical part, the greatest attention is paid to the overall issue of noun declension in the Czech language and the concept of nouns in the languages that the respondent speaks fluently – Mongolian and French. Last but not least, this part of the thesis shows how the topic of noun declension is dealt with in five selected Czech textbooks for foreigners. The second part of the thesis presents and analyzes individual exercises that were continuously assigned to the student from December 2022 to February 2024. In this part, the reader will also find analyzed stylistic works and transcriptions of the respondent's audio recordings, which are key for this thesis. The stylistic works are thoroughly examined in the empirical part and critical points in the respondent's noun inflection are identified. The aim of this thesis is to describe the improvement of the respondent's competences in the area of noun inflection in the Czech language in 15 months. At the end of the thesis, the set goals are evaluated.