

Thesis title: Significance of the „ Sternoscapular Line "for Pain Syndromes Within the Cervical Region

Vymezeni problem: how they affect a painful condition of origin or significantly connection with the cervical region, the mutual position of the blades and the keys? It is appropriate to use

„ sternoskapularni line "PFI vysetfovani neck area? That will be the main question of this study. Cile : The aim of practical part is to find out what the connection between painful condition in the cervical region and the mutual position of the blade and clavicle. The general part I will try to summarize most important theoretical knowledge on the topic. The solution of the method: The experiment will attend

30 probands with a painful syndrome of cervical backbone of a similar number of probands without such difficulties.

Will be tracking blades and sprouts in probands both groups.

Key words: cervical spine, cervical region, sternoscapular line, examination, clinical test, muscular imbalances