

The aim of the work was to outline concept of sensory integration and determinate incidence of sensory integration disorder by group of children having diagnosis developmental coordination disorders.