

The bachelor thesis is about Personal assistance as one of the ways toward fulfilling human rights of a person with special needs. The aim of the thesis is demonstration personal assistance as a suitable tool for fulfilling needs and rights of a person with special needs. The hypothesis of the work is that personal assistance allows people with special needs living ordinary life in the society. The theoretical part contains orientation in this topic. The practical part contains qualitative questionnaire to endorse the aim of the thesis. The questionnaire contains 12 questions and was filled in by clients of non-government organization Assistance.