

I wrote my thesis about The care of patient with transplant liver. The work is divided into theoretical and practical part.

I directed the theoretical part to anatomy and function of liver and gall-bladder ways, liver's diseases, which conducted to transplant of liver patients, whose case reports I will work in the practical part. I present etiology, clinical symptoms, diagnostic, complication and treatment of diseases. I paid attention a special chapter to problematic of transplant of liver.

In the practical part I work out case reports of two patients with transplant of liver, who were hospitalized in Clinical anesthesiology, resuscitation and intensive care in IKEM. In the first case report I describe course of hospitalization of patient with liver cirrhosis. In the second case report I describe course of hospitalization of patient with acute hepatic failure on the strength of Wilson's disease. At first I work out a course of important days for treatment. I took nursing anamnesis. I set needs of patients and then I describe nursing interventions. In summary I present nursing diagnosis. I evaluated nursing care and whole course of hospitalization.

At the end I compare a course of treatment about the patients with different diagnosis. I describe how I took steps during writing my work and I informed about my knowledge and experiences.

I included the medical documentation and some topical pictures to the appendix.
