

This thesis surveys the influence of technological development, digitisation in particular, on changing of working methods in radio broadcast. The key terms are multimedia, new media, interactivity and individualization of media content. This progress is demonstrated by example of Czech Radio reality show which took place in from November 7th, 2005, till January 15th, 2006, and was relaunched later.