

Annotation

Author: Andrea Klímová

Institution: Charles University, Faculty of Medicine in Hradec Králové, Department of Social Medicine, Division of Nursing

Title of the thesis: The Possibilities of Using European Grant Programmes in the Area of Health Care and Education in Hradec Králové Region

Supervisor: Prof. PhDr. Jiří Mareš, CSc.

Number of pages: 170

Number of enclosures: 2

Year of the thesis defence: 2009

Key words: grants, allocation, absorption capacity, disparity

The bachelor thesis elucidates the possibilities for obtaining financial support in the area of health care and related education for potential applicants in Hradec Králové Region from the European grant programmes, for the purpose of improving health care and education. A substantial financial allocation intended for the above-mentioned areas in the current programming period of 2007–2013 is emphasized. The Community Programmes which are not well-known especially amongst the non-professional public are also presented. Their importance will increase after the end of the current programming period when it is highly probable that the other grant programmes will be reduced for the Czech Republic. To inspire the potential applicants in preparing new project proposals, the projects which have already been carried out are described. This description should also increase the utilization of outcomes of these projects.

The theoretical part gives the almost complete topical spectrum of grant programmes in the area of health care and related education. The empirical part states the results of a questionnaire survey connected with interviews which were carried out in ten respondents.