

Final bachelor's thesis on „Nursing care for a patient after a hip replacement“ bachelor's thesis focuses on the problem of total hip replacement, as the disease coxarthrosis to preoperative and postoperative care of patient after total hip replacement.

The objective is to determine the level of preoperative and postoperative care of patient after total hip replacement. in selected hospital and assess the general standards of care in the preoperative and postoperative care.

Another objective is based on information obtained from preoperative and postoperative situation to propose their own standards.

In the bachelor's thesis I used the method of qualitative monitoring undertaken using a case study of nursing.