

In my study I dealt with the issue of the cancer of suppository uterine. The aim was to learn what knowledge and information young people have about this serious disease. The theoretical part comprises the fundamental anatomy of genitals, gynaecological examining methods, the partition of tumours and changes of the cervix, and information about human papillomavirus. In the practical part I compiled the data from informants acquired by means of an anonymous questionnaire.