

This essay discusses a detailed outline and a comparison of available alternative nutrition for infants on the market, including special ones which are used to solve pathological states.

Essay discusses about the advantages of breastfeeding, the causes for feeding children with alternative nutrition and talks about the support of breastfeeding by the government and non-government organizations. At the same time outline deals fyziology of lactation, historical notes about breastfeeding and alternative nutrition for infants.