

The theme of his thesis "The Laws of ownership relations to the remnant of the human body - preventing forensic accountability in medicine" I have chosen primarily because of with the exhibition, Bodies ... The Exhibition, which took place during 2007 in Prague. This exhibition, traveling around the world raised in all destinations (New York, Sao Paulo, Madrid) numerous discussions about the topic not only moral and ethical, but also site legal, mainly because of unclear origin issued exhibits.

Another of my motivations was that you go for several years been working on Institute of Anatomy 3rd medical school and teaching anatomy takes place primarily on materials coming from the bodies voluntary donors. I was interested in the legal treatment of tuff practice and how this is practiced in other states because during his study stay in the northern city of Udine Padua and I met with, that not all learning takes place illustrate the anatomy, as is customary in our geographical widths.
