

The paper presents an overview of the current state of the incidence of Lyme disease in the Czech Republic and the Karlovy Vary Region. The work also deals with the diagnosis, pathogenesis, clinical manifestations, treatment, mode of transmission and prevention options for these diseases.