

During my studies at the 3rd Faculty of Medicine with the passing of my semesters and internships in clinical workplaces are increasingly inclined to surgical fields. Each medic happens in the course of study the question of who will choose the field for his and he will continue to pursue in clinical practice.

So as I chose. I decided to start the surgical disciplines. When I was in the classroom in recent years met with the theme of prevention of harm to patients in surgery, I began to interest in this issue. The motive for me personally was quite interested to find out how can prevent the coming to my practice because of my mistakes was shorter than I would have liked. by

I started about the possibility of prevention of damage to the patient's interest in surgery, I answer a number of issues that would certainly meet later in my upcoming practice. selection of Master work on this topic is a logical result of my interest in this issue.
