

This thesis entitled "The concept of man in Augustine and the Old Testament with emphasis on the relationship between body and soul" represents the world of Jewish man, his view of the body's organs and their importance not only in terms of function, but also symbolic.