

Abstrakt

The topic of this thesis is “Proceedings for administrative transgressions against the safety and smooth highway traffic”. Although there is no such special type of proceedings, it is an issue which deserves an attention. Every one of us is a part of highway traffic every day. Therefore it is important not only to know the rules by of it but also the rules and principles of the proceedings in which are transgressions against safety and smooth highway traffic heard.

The aim of this thesis is to provide the complex summary of the proceedings for administrative transgressions against the safety and smooth highway traffic and to give notice of its unusualness from the basic proceedings for administrative transgressions. This thesis also points out the inaccuracies, wrongness and ambiguities of the proceedings’ rules and also reflects and comments the latest amendments to relevant acts.

The thesis is divided into nine chapters, from which the first and the last ones are introduction and conclusion.

The second chapter clarifies the term administrative transgressions.

The third chapter briefly describes the administrative transgressions against the safety and smooth of highway traffic and the interests safeguarded by them.

The fourth chapter gives the overall summary of the administrative proceedings.

The fifth chapter provides the information about the procedures taken before inception of the administrative proceedings. This part gives also detailed commentary to the latest changes in this stage of the proceedings initiated by the Act No. 297/2011 Coll. effective from January 19, 2013.

The sixth chapter engages in subjects of the proceedings and their rights and duties.

The seventh chapter is about the joint proceedings and its changes effective since the beginning of the year 2012.

The eighth chapter is divided into five parts and gives the overall summary of the process of the proceedings for administrative transgressions for the safety and smooth highway traffic from its beginning to rendering a decision and includes parts about oral proceedings, substantiation and special forms of administrative proceedings.