

Abstract: This bachelor thesis deals with problems in communication disability and efficiency of speech therapy by children before entering the first grade of primary school. The thesis summarizes knowledge from special education and logopdia. In theoretical part there are described the basic concepts of communication disability, development of speech, preschool age and speech therapy. It explains theoretical context, compares the different approaches and differences in terminology and introduces the issue. The practical part discusses progress and results of research.