

he topic of his thesis prevention of autoimmune diseases I selected on the basis of their interest in this issue. They are diseases which are widespread in the population, with a frequency of 5%, and many of them lead to disability and severe restrictions on the affected patients, which have a far-reaching socio-economic impact on our society.