

ABSTRAKT- EN

Thermal characteristics of oligoesters with linear and branched constitution of molecule were studied. It was revealed the decreasing tendency of the both characteristics - specific heat of glass transition temperature and glass transition temperature values. The reason of this fact was in deterioration process of polyester molecule by hydrolysis. In the buffer solutions surroundings with pH above 7 end groups are ionized with consequences in increasing glass transition temperatures of oligoesters.