

Abstract

Bachelor thesis on "Nursing care in healing pressure ulcers" focuses on the care of pressure ulcers compared between public and private health institutions. The aim of this work is to determine the differences in the treatment of pressure ulcers and basic knowledge of nursing staff on the same type of separation.

The paper describes the basic anatomical and pathophysiological knowledge of pressure ulcers, and has been omitted or prevention, which is placed particularly in recent years, great emphasis. The largest part is dedicated to the treatment of pressure ulcers, which are referred to as the latest recommendations.

In the second part, the theoretical findings using a structured questionnaire, the questions were designed for basic information about prevention and treatment of pressure ulcers. The questionnaire was submitted to the nursing staff.

In conclusion, the results of the investigation and setting their own goals.