

Abstract

The topic of this thesis is theater drama as a part of television program. This diploma thesis tries to define unique and specific relationship between two different media - Theater and Television. The main aim of this thesis is mapping and analyzing of the position which theatrical drama, and the theater in general, had and has within a program of television. The next aim of the thesis is reviewing of role of theatre on the beginning of television broadcasting and mapping changes and evolution of meanings, within which theatre drama was presented in television.

Primarily, the thesis focuses on a broadcasting of two televisions - the Czechoslovak Television and subsequently the Czech Television. The television broadcasting is influenced by many factors. And same as the medium of television, the presentation of theatre drama in Tv is influenced by these factors as well. The theoretical background and the research should show the contemporary position of theatre, and theatre drama, as a part of television program.