

ABSTRACT

The diploma thesis named „The Club of Customs Officers of the Czech Republic" describes the development of this voluntary, independent, professional organization of the Customs Administration of the Czech Republic since 1923 until now. The main purpose of this diploma thesis is to classify this professional organization to the Civil society organizations and to find out, what its purposes in the society are. There are theoretical principles described in the first part, which I apply to The Club of Customs Officers in the second part. The third part is focused on The Club of Customs Officers of the Czech Republic itself.