

The title of thesis is The high-school education possibilities of special school pupils. Special school educates pupils having cephalonia with special education needs. The goal of the thesis is to find out the possibilities and motivation for a placement of pupils finishing special school. I chose special school in Třebíč and special school in Prague for research. Pupils who finished the special school filled up „The profession“ questionnaire, which purpose was to find out their professional orientation and motivation for a future employment. For special school pupils, the high-school education possibilities are high training colleges, training colleges and practical schools. The highest possibility of placement is at training schools. Better job placement possibilities have special school pupils finishing the school in Prague. Higher job placement motivation have special school pupils who finished the school in Třebíč.
