

My dissertation work describes the history of Jews living on the Czech land, mainly on the territory of the Western Bohemia in chosen regions during the time period from the 18th century to the first half of the 20th century. The individual chapters describe the early appearance of Jews in each chosen municipal regions, their life inside and outside ghetto, and the history of Jewish cemeteries and synagogues. My information had been obtained from the available literature and archival sources.