

This work is about postmodern society. Our society is degenerating. Impersonal structures and technological systems are closing human to the inorganic world. Ownership and technology are leading to the destructive bearing on the world. Renaissance of positive access to the life is possible to find already in modern science. We can find it in modern hermeneutics of biology by Anton Markoš. When we are talking about postmodern, is impossible to leave out of consideration his prophet, Friedrich Nietzsche.